Winter Shearing of Angoras

By C. W. ORR, Palmer Lake, Colorado

The demand for wool is growing stronger very fast as the supply of Japanese wool is being exhausted, therefore it is more important than ever that you step up your production of high grade wool.

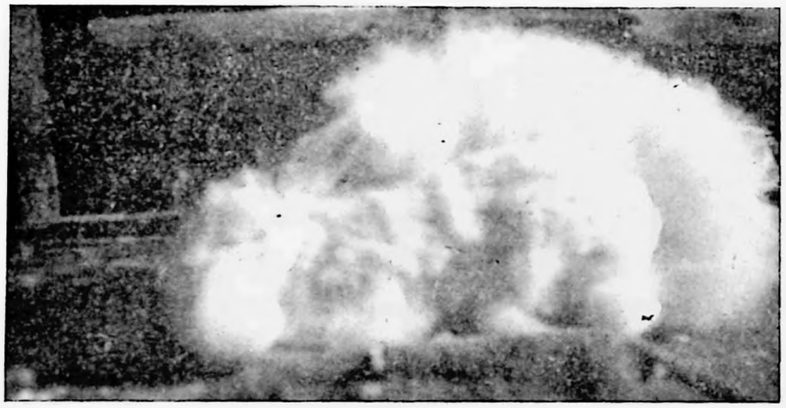
Every year at this time there is a temptation to let the rabbits go and clean up on them in the spring even though you take a loss by doing so. It is felt the rabbits may take cold if they are sheared and left out in the cold.

The wool lost, by not being prepared to take care of the rabbits, would pay for a good shed or whatever protection your climate calls for to protect your rabbits after shearing. You do not need a large shed as the rabbits do not need to stay in it for any great length of time. A shed which will hold a third or even less, of your colony will be enough as they are in the shed only about three to four weeks after shearing. If you are not prepared to build a shed you can give the rabbits a box with straw in it or you can put a shelf in the hutch so the rabbit can get up off of the wire floor. If about a half-inch of wool is left on the rabbit and he is given some protection it will take care of most climates.

This call for wool is a very serious matter. The mills want the wool in quantity and an uninterrupted source of supply is hit and miss.

It is not probable this is going to be all smooth sailing for the growers. If we want this thing to go we are everyone of us going to put our shoulder to the wheel and make it go. It is my experience that is the only way things go—is when they are made to go.

Another thing I believe accounts for a large part of the lower grades of wool is a lack of grooming of the rabbit at the time of shearing. There is a great deal of wool comes in No. 3 that a few brushes could have put into No. 2. Wool with little cots on the ends, wool half tangled or bebbed looks short when a little brushing would have made it long and straight. Most growers brush a little on the top and then forget the lower sides and rump. If you start at the lower edge and groom up you will find you will have much better wool. The wool is so apt to tangle under the neck and between the legs. Much of this is put into No. 4 and shorts because it is not brushed out. No. 2 grade is very much in demand just now since it is much nearer to the price of the Japanese wool. The length of No. 2 is 1½ to 2 inches long, the average must be at least 1¾ or better.



There is a great deal of wool comes in No. 4 and No. 5 that should not be there at all. Wool with stained ends in No. 5 that if the stained ends had been cut off and put in No. 5 the balance of the wool could have gone in No. 3 or No. 2.

With the winter season coming on we urge you to take care of your Angoras and get every pound of wool you can get.

We are asked over and over again how to ship the wool. There are a number of ways which are quite acceptable. The best appearance is made by putting the wool into a cardboard carton and not pressing it down at all execept the weight of the wool itself. In this case if a piece of paper is laid inside the box or the box is wrapped in a strong piece of paper and tied with string it is not apt to be broken in. Also wool looks very nice when it is put in paper bags and then put into a carton so it is not mashed and crushed by heavy packages being piled on it. Wool shipped in these paper sacks put inside cloth or burlap sacks comes through all right but is often mashed until it is felted together until it looks like one solid mat and in fact is so matted it has to be pulled apart piece by piece to get it separated. If this is the most

Winter Management in the Rabbitry

By L. E. Shoemaker

I will endeavor to describe in this article, how I strive to manage my rabbitry in the winter time.

I believe that every one of the following factors should be observed if one is to raise rabbits, that grow strong in bone and flesh, size and vitality; rabbits, that simply dance a jig every time they see you coming, rabbits, that know which way their hutch door swings open. In short, living up to the suggestions stated below, gives me the pleasure to declare that my Flemish Giants are described to you in the above lines. They have not only exceptionally good weight but good bone and vitality.

Outdoor hutches built in sections facing east, with roof and ends extended to afford better protection from winds and storms and each section equipped with lights are to me ideal. The man who encloses his rabbits in some way for winter, shutting out sun and fresh air is fooling himself when he thinks he is doing this for the comfort of his stock. His own comfort while feeding, etc., is on his mind the heaviest, I think.

Our hutches are built in rows in our cherry orchard and they are about 6 feet long, 3 feet wide and 28 inches high. Each screen door is fitted with a curtain of some thin, durable material (cheese cloth is good) and fastened with ties at each corner to small nails slanted in the corners of the frame of the door. This curtain can be let down at any angle, according to the weather. Sun and fresh air (the best of medicines) can penetrate on the windiest days. Night dampness, storms and winds are kept from the hutches in this way. However, whenever possible we keep the curtains own at one end or on nice days down entirely, for ocld won't hurt your rabbits. The storms and winds are not so good.

Collapsible nest boxes are best built so that they can be taken from the hutch by removing the side and top sections. The compartments should be 16 inches, 16 inches wide and the length of one end of the hutch. A door should fit the front end of the nest box, while an opening 9 inches by 8 inches for the doe to enter should be on the side near the other end.

Regularity in cleaning is very important in winter as well as in summer. Just because it is cold hutches must not be neglected. I find that when rabbits have roomy hutches, they keep them quite clean and dry, all except one corner, which should be scraped out about every three days at least. A hutch occupied by a doe with litter should be cleaned oftener. A good bed of clean dry shavings should be kept on the floor. When I clean I keep shoving the shavings from the clean part of the hutch toward the dirty corner after spraying, (which should be done regularly in winter too) and put in new in the clean end. The youngsters as a rule will keep their nest boxes dry and clean if their hutch is kept in good order. Clean crocks are a necessity in winter as well as summer.

Perhaps feeding and in the winter time, watering come up as the biggest problems to breeders. Rabbits will form a habit of drinking their fill morning and night if the water is regularly given to them. Warm water is given to our rabbits about 6 o'clock a. m. Their small crocks are filled about one-fourth full. If the water starts to freeze an hour or two later a little hot water is added to each crock, when they drink again, after which the rest is thrown out. At this time each bunnie gets his small piece of real dry bread and again at night. All rabbits up to 11 or 12 weeks of age have oatmeal before them at all times and I mean at all times. You cannot feed rabbits properly one day and not the next and expect to have thrifty stock. An empty crock one day and not the next means overeating which is bound to cause trouble. At the age of eleven weeks or so they are started on a little oats. A little oatmeal is given all rabbits a couple of times a week and an ear of corn occasionally, their ration of oats is cut down. A small handful of oats is fed night and morning, with a small bunch of alfalfa.

One should be sure that water is given a little while before feed. Especially young rabbits will overload their already filled-up stomachs with water if fed first, because of thirst. They want the water whether they have room for it or not and quite often indigestion and scours result. I have discovered that a little potassium permagnate of potash in the drinking water, enough to make the water quite pink, will straighten a bunny thus afflicted up in no time. I am careful now, to see that my rabbits have water a while before feed and consequently I have had no trouble. Potassium permagnate of potash is fine to correct diarrhea, caused by sudden changes in the weather. I used to give it to my Ancona hens and chickens so I tried it on my rabbits with best of results.

I think many rabbit breeders change feed too suddenly and too often. Also I think too much hay can be fed, resulting in the rabbit leaving his other food untouched. A rabbit should be eager for his next meal and yet be in good condition, sleep and thrifty looking.

When cleaning or feeding, the droppings should be observed and if the rabbits seem constipated a carrot should be fed occasionally in winter or a little fresh greens in summer. If good alfalfa hay is fed and the above method of feeding is followed, I believe rabbits do better without much green feed. It is much less expensive to feed good feed and have good rabbits than to feed poor, cheap feed and have poor rabbits. During very changeable weather put about 12 drops of tincture of aconite in one gallon drinking water once a week to prevent colds.

I do not breed my does in December or January. I believe those are two good months to get them in good flesh and fur, ready to breed along the middle of February. The babies will do much better and in the end one will be just as far ahead. Two or three litters a year of exceptionally good rabbits are better than four ordinary ones. More attention should be paid to the condition of a doe's fur and flesh when she is bred and a buck should not be used when he is moulting. During the winter, pay attention to each rabbit. Take note whether this big framed one looks as if an extra ear of corn occasionally would be good for her. Perhaps another doe puts on flesh more easily and should not be too fat when bred a little later on. Perhaps no corn at all would be best for her. One has to know his rabbits and study them. If a rabbit looks a little rough or is a little off her feed, look in her ears. If in the least scabby put a little suphur, lard and olive oil mixed in them with your finger, or a swab. However, this will seldom happen if hutches are kept clean and dry.

Just a word about the man, who goes into the rabbit business purely for profit, with no love for his work. He invariably fails with the idea that there is very little money in it. If you love your rabbits you will look out for their comfort and little wants the other fellow would not even see. For instance, in the winter, whenever you go near the rabbitry, take some warm water with you to the little bunnies. In this way they have water fit to drink most of the day and they are not so thirsty at feeding time. Another instance, during the day it may begin to blow and bluster suddenly. The curtains adjusted properly, not necessarily up tight, will keep the hutches dry and comfortable. In short, many little things like these go a long way to make our rabbits happy, therefore healthy and healthy rabbits mean profit.

In closing, regularity is our motto and it applies equally to feeding, cleaning, watering and petting. The young doe that receives a little dig behind the ears or a pat on the back will make a mother, that will be easy to manage. She will trust you to help her to look after her babies and she won't be a cross worried mother. Kindness always pays.

Defense Brings Boom In Cavy Breeding

The expansion of the nation's armed forces and defense industries have increased experimental laboratory work along different lines, and the little cavy has come in for a share of profit making. The army and physical examinations, including the Wasserman test for syphilis and also for premarital tests in New York and other states, have increased the usual laboratory demand for cavies many times over. On a farm near Brockport there are between eight and ten thousand breeders and the owner expects to raise eighty thousand young during the coming year. This man started breeding three years ago with twenty English cavies and is now believed to be the largest breeder in the country. M. C.

And I Like Angora Rabbits

By FERN M. CREHAN, R. R. 1, Amherst, Ohio

Although a comparative newcomer in the Angora rabbit business, I am completely sold on it as a profitable and most interesting enterprise.

Not quite two years ago, I purchased my first pair of young rabbits. By the first of this year, in addition to the original parents, I had 17 very satisfactory offspring. I had learned something about their care, and how to shear and sort the wool for markets anxious to get it at a good price.

Early this spring I decided to add new blood to my growing herd, and purchased two good pedigreed bucks. These I chose with a definite plan in mind. Of course I wanted to improve my stock still further in the matter of ear tufts and furnishings (what Angora breeder doesn't?) and also, since some of my young does were outstanding in size for their type, I decided to intensify this, and at the same time breed for slightly coarser wool. This stronger, more resilient type of wool seems to be on the preferred list. Consequently I contacted reliable breeders (with whose advertisements in SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE I was familiar) and stated my requirements.

Today I am concentrating on two distinct strains, breeding very carefully chosen does to each buck, in order to intensify the traits I want to bring out. The best of those sired by my English buck (my original stock is of this type), I shall keep for show stock, and for sale to other breeders who may want showy, heavily furnished animals. Those sired by the buck chosen for his size, and the desired type of wool, I shall keep for woolers. Furthermore, with two blood lines I shall be able to sell pairs sufficiently unrelated, to beginners in this field.

Right now I am reconditioning a building where I hope to house my herd comfortably both winter and summer. It was an old refreshment building, 30x10, and I had it moved into our shady orchard. When it is completed, the entire upper half of each side will be in sections which can be raised and propped to allow free circulation of air, as well as added shade. Some day soon I hope to have a double row of modern indoor hutches down the center of my rabbit house. I intend, however, to reserve six or eight feet at one end for a work room. I want this space walled off, and equipped with light and heating possibilities, so that I can use it winter and summer for grooming and shearing my rabbits, and also for spinning wool yarn for my own use. A discarded old-fashioned book case is waiting to be moved there. It is replete with show case, draws, etc. Here I shall keep my typewriter and supplies as well as my fast growing accumulation of records, magazines, articles on Angoras and correspondence. The show case will hold the cups I hope to win at some future date. As soon as I can find the time I intend to improve my spinning technique until I can spin yarn of smooth, even texture. This, woven on a loom I have in mind, should result in some very superior baby blankets and scarfs. Here, too, I plan to have space for a couple of portable breeding hutches in which I can house does which may kindle in severe weather.

For years I have done a great deal of crocheting and knitting. Last winter, for $1.50 I purchased an old spinning wheel. I was fortunate in having it put in working order by one of the ablest of "tinkerers" who happened to remember how his grandmother's wheel operated. So I learned to spin yarn which I crocheted into really beautiful mittens of the type popular at present. The yarn was not very even, and since it had not been bleached, at first the color appeared slightly creamy. Two or three washings took care of this and in addition brought out a fluff that looked like white fur. Most wonderful of all, they did not shed, as had those previously made of the commercial type of yarn. I have enough pioneer blood in my veins to derive intense satisfaction from being able to make finished, usable garments from material produced right here at home.

I have, of course, sold wool and breeding stock, but I believe there are financial possibilities which would greatly increase my profit. I can, and do, take part payment for my raw wool in commercially spun and dyed yarn. Some day I want to make up three or four sample garments, and display these and samples of the wool from which they were made in a local store. At least a 50 per cent profit from this should be realized. I know that I can find a ready market for baby

"GOD BLESS AMERICA"

We have just gone through the annual Thanksgiving season, let's be thankful that conditions are as well with us as they are. The Pilgrims did not have conditions as favorable as do we, but they were extremely thankful. How thankful we should be that we live in the GOOD OLD U. S. A. The following story seems to me to be very appropriate:

God Bless America

A story is told that a little boy of six asked his mother if he might sing his evening prayer. Somewhat puzzled she consented, and this is what he sang softly and reverently:

"God bless America, land that I love,
Stand beside Her and guide Her,
Through the night with a light
From the mountains, to the prairies,
To the ocean, white with foam,
God bless America, my home,
sweet home."

As Americans we should daily pray "God Bless America" and do everything possible to make it a "Christian Nation" and "land of the free," giving freely of love, sympathy and funds to downtrodden people.

MEAT RABBITS IN DEMAND

The past few weeks have seen an upward trend in the demand for meat rabbits, in fact the demand is so strong in some sections that not enough first class stock can be found to fill this increasing demand.

Buyers tell us that the demand is here and will continue for some time for good, plump stock. To get top prices you must produce a first-class carcass.

A hike into the mountains after the Yule Log, beautiful Christmas music and plenty of Wassail to drink. Everyone is welcome. (How we envy the residents living near Palmer Lake who have the opportunity to attend these ceremonies. —Ed.)

Our special HOLIDAY offer ends at midnight, December 31. Better get your order in early and not be disappointed.

"MARKETING YOUR RABBITS"

One of the newest sales aids to reach our desk is the book "Marketing Your Rabbits" published by Purina Mills. This book contains 50 pages filled with the most up-to-date marketing methods that have found favor with many of the larger rabbitries. It is concise and to the point, with every chapter well illustrated.

The contents are broken down to cover the following chapters: The Rabbit Industry; Marketing Domestic Rabbit Meat; Selling Rabbit Skins; Marketing Angora Wool; Selling Laboratory Stock.

If you are in the industry trying to make a profit from the commercial side you should have a copy of this interesting book.

MOVED TO WASHINGTON

Nodland's Bunnyland which has been located at Marshalltown, Iowa, for a number of years has recently moved to Veradale, Wash., where they plan to increase the number of breeding does and really get into the production of New Zealand Whites in a big way.

CAVIES AS A FOOD

Well, here we are with Christmas just around the corner. And how about something different on the table. Have given this a good deal of thought in the past few weeks. Have you? Same date every year. The same things to buy and give. But between you and me we have one delicacy at hand that few in this country have ever had the privilege of tasting at Christmas dinner. Namely, Cavy.

Don't laugh or scoff at the idea for it really is a fine one. In fact I said about the same thing as you probably are as you read this. (Rats). Or you may just shrug your shoulders and say: "Let him eat them." I am sorry for your sake if you do.

In Europe cavies have been eaten by the rich and poor alike for a great many years. The poor people raising enough for their own use any any surplus which may accumulate is sold on the open markets.

The nick-name, Guinea Pig? This name is partially derived from the sale in England of cavies at the known figure of 1 to 2 guineas each. Being priced according to size, weight, and general condition at the market.

Well here goes for a short, short, story, or tall tale, if you wish. Nevertheless, it is true. Six months ago I went out to my caviary and found three cavies of the 8-ounce class dead. Didn't know what the cause was, but each had its throat cut. This procedure happened the next two nights and in the same classes and in the same pen. Decided to kill the three sows in this pen. Couldn't see any other answer to the killings. The boss suggested we fry them. So proceeded to skin and dress them. The Mrs. fried them the same as rabbit and they sure looked fine. But to eat them, well I have to laugh about it now. To eat them was another thing to think about. No fooling after shutting my eyes for the first bite, the rest of the family did too. (They didn't admit it as readily as I.) After that first bite I really can say the meal was perfect. Mashed potatoes, gravy, corn, celery, and cavies. How does that sound? Try it and you will agree with me, I am almost certain of that. Well to go on with the story, this didn't stop the killings in my caviary.

Proceeded to put chicken netting over all openings. Windows, ventilation openings, etc. This still did not stop the killings.

After due thought and consideration I decided to ask for information at the agricultural college. I was told that my enemy was the well known weasel and that the best cure was to use half-inch hardware mesh cloth to stop the depredations. Have had no more trouble.

PLEASE, HELP WANTED

I am a subscriber to SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE. Have read the cavy department for the past two years, saving all copies for future reference. Raise only cavies and mice. During the past summer I have been having trouble with my cavies getting large lumps under their necks. Some of them having as many as five at one time. I have tried a number of different remedies but nothing seems to help. Wonder if any of the readers have had this trouble, and what they did to stop it.

John L. Bubb.

How about some help readers as I never have had this exact trouble with my cavies. Gave the best advice I was able to under the circumstances and will appreciate any help you may be able to give John. —Editor.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

How about getting more subscribers for the editor. The more subscribers, the more advertising, the more room for discussing our problems on this page? How about some help from the breeders. Next issue am going to have help from some outstanding judges on the topic: "Cavies to Show."

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and hope to hear from YOU ALL in the New Year.

When writing to advertisers please tell them exactly what you want. That is as follows: If you want Red cavies, specify Red. If you want young stock, tell the advertiser just what you want. And mention whether you wish show breeders or laboratory stock. The advertiser is only able to quote prices satisfactorily if you give him an idea of just exactly what you want. Do not be shocked at the prices asked, for you receive exactly what you pay for. If you buy a dollar cavy don't expect too much from it. The more you have to pay the better the stock you receive will be. If you are dealing with reliable dealers this will always hold true for his business existence depends on his dealing with you as the prospective buyer. Don't write just a postal card to the advertiser, write a letter giving and asking all necessary information which will help both in any business dealing you may have.

By the time you read this our 1941 Show and Convention will be history and I am wondering what will have been accomplished and what effect the popular vote has had in interest shown.

Was very much disappointed and discouraged to find that only 240 members out of a membership of close to 2,000 were interested enough to vote for nomination of officers. If no more interest is shown with election then I am about ready to admit that my fight to give you the popular vote was in vain.

Most of you know that it was only after one of the bitterest fights in which I lost many friends and supporters that this resolution to vote on all resolutions by mail, and by the membership was passed. You can readily see that it's very discouraging to find that only 240 members were interested enough to vote the nomination ballot. We shall look forward with interest as to how many election ballots are returned, also as to results of vote on the various resolutions.

You were given what you have been requesting for years, now we shall see what happens. I have not tried to influence anyone, I have been neutral and am glad that SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE took the same stand. I need not try to defend SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE for the stand it took although a number of breeders were rather provoked because their articles were not published. They treated them all alike and I think it a good policy, especially since they must depend on non-members of the American for their largest circulation.

There is only one resolution being voted on at this time that I am vitally interested in and that is No. 14. I cannot influence anyone at this time because it will have been voted on before you read this. I only wish to state my preliminary views. Personally I consider this resolution unconstitutional for several reasons. First, you accept $2 membership fee from anyone regardless, be he a member of a local club affiliated with the American or not. This $2 entitles him to all privileges of the association. Resolution No. 14 if passed deprives him of a vote because he does not belong to a local club affiliated with the American.

This my friends is just the start of the argument of No. 14 if it is passed. By the time January issue is ready to go to press we shall have had a chance to study the actions of the membership and business tranacted at Fort Wayne so look for January issue, 1942, to be a humdinger in every respect.

If the date on your wrapper reads: "Feb. 1942," this means that your subscription ends with this issue. Better renew now and not miss any copies.

WHAT ARE YOU!

By E. W. Murray

To those of you who have been following this department for the past months remember that I have repeatedly said "FOOD would win this WAR." Today all farmers in Los Angeles county are invited to sign up to spur production of basic foods for this country and Great Britain. This will be known as "Food will win the war" campaign. Another thing I have been watching is price of feed. It has been advancing every week. I have wondered when we would reach the peak.

American farm bureau president, Ed O'Neil, speaking in Montgomery, Ala., warned farmers that "inflation is a greater menace to them than any other group."

It was sound advice and the farsighted farm leader might well have addressed it to the farm members of the house banking committee, who for more than three months have blocked action on the price control bill designed to avert the inflation which the farmers fear.

When I write to you readers I think of you as farmers. The government classes anyone who has a $250 per year income from farm products a farmer and if you are any kind of a rabbit breeder its not hard to come within the farmer class.

The price control bill was drafted by Price Administrator Leon Henderson after weeks of careful study, and turned over to the banking committee in July. The committee had nothing on its docket, could have considered it immediately, but recessed for a month instead so the boys could go home to look over their political fences.

A month later they drifted leisurely back to the job and began a series of hearings that dragged out until last week. Meanwhile inflation, only a threatening shadow in July, became a grim and rapidly snowballing reality.

In the wasted three months, the price of my rabbit feed went up 20 cents a hundred pounds. I began to wonder where the top was. Did you have this same situation where you live? Well here's good news, the price control bill has been reported out of committee. By the time you read this it may become a law. When it does we can all plan our future feed program. How many of us in the city, where we buy all of our feed, could afford to raise rabbits if the cost of production kept advancing? You know I am as hard headed Irishman as you ever saw. I always thought I could mix up as good a combination of grains as any mill, but the last year I have changed my mind. The most successful rabbit raisers in California use what we call commercial rabbit feeds. These feeds are manufactured by all the milling companies. These Mills maintain a staff of nutrition experts who really know what they are doing. These Mills also have a staff of service men who are in the field and can see just what the results are. All of this expert advice is free to the rabbit breeder. I and you cannot afford to experiment with our own mix when the mills are doing it for us. Most of the rabbit feeds contain from 14 to 16 per cent protein, fat runs about 3 per cent, fibre 16 per cent and ash around 8 per cent. One of the most widely used feeds has this analysis and is composed of alfalfa meal, ground oats, wheat bran, wheat shorts, ground barley, ground corn, soybean oil meal, oil processed linseed meal, dried skimmilk, and salt. Don't write and ask me in what proportion each grain is used, as that is the millers secret. The above is a very good formula and is being used by 75 per cent of the rabbit breeders in southern California.

Getting back to the farm control bill, farm prices and wages are the main sectors of opposition in congress to total price control for the United States. Canada includes both in her sweeping control.

Major Canadian crops, however, already are under various types of control: 1. The object of these partly is to stimulate output of meat. Meat is ruled by a special board. You can look forward to the same regulations in this country. Again I warn you to produce more rabbits. Meat is going to be higher, how much is the question and what is going to be the top for feed?

Along with producing more rabbits I think we should also try to produce better rabbits. Several readers have written to me wanting to know where they could get good stock. Also several who have purchased Flemish have asked how we can tell if we have a pure bred rabbit. I am going to tell you in simple words how to do it.

Purity of breed is very desirable in any strain of rabbits, and can be obtained by anyone with a little patience, and a small amount of knowledge. By purity of breed I mean the absents of other breeds of rabbits in that breed, or as its popularly known among fanciers the absence of "sports."

The whole thing is so simple that it will only take a few lines to explain the principles.

To make it still more simple to understand, let's take an example of say a strain of Chinchillas that occasionally throw woolies, and Silver Martens. The best method of ridding the strain of these two impurities or "sports" is to take one at a time. So we will take the woolie first. Make a start with a buck that has not given any woolie up to the present (any buck that has already given a woolie is a proved carrier), and mate him straight to a couple of Angoras. If any woolies turn up or even a single one it proves him to carry this character. Carry this testing on until you come across a buck that will give no woolies with Angoras, then, you have a proved and tested buck. The odds of finding one is never greater than one free, to two, that carry the unwanted character, providing the does have at least seven young each. Having tested out the buck, test, in the same way for a doe. When you find one mate her to the tested buck. You can never produce another woolie. And you can with perfect confidence sell the offspring guaranteed free of woolie. The Silver Marten character can be tested out the same way.

Now remember, that any woolie or Silver Marten in a litter from two Chinchillas brands both buck and doe as a carrier. Also that the use alone of tested bucks soon makes a marked decrease in the number of possible carriers in a strain. Further if you wish you can test for both characters together by using Silver Marten Angoras.

Now the above is simple enough isn't it, but how many of the rabbit breeders know of it? Very few, and why, because it is generally written about in terms of dominant factors, recessive factors, genes, Mendel laws, garden peas, and white mice.

In Rexing we go the other way about, that is, put something (rex) into a strain that does not show in the first generation any more than the occurance of woolie did in our first example of the Chinchilla that occasionally threw woolies. As an example let's breed a Whiterex to a White Flemish. The litter will be all normal White Flemish, not a Rex among them. Nevertheless they ALL carry it safely hidden away. To bring it out we mate to the character we want, Whiterex, and here we get it again in the second generation. Just as we did when testing for woolie with a normal Chinchilla that carried this character. The odds of woolies and Whiterexes will also be the same in both cases, 50 per cent of the young will turn up with the characters woolie and rex, the 50 per cent in both cases will be normals. To make it quite plain we will give it in two matings: Chinchilla carrying woolie, mated to woolie, gives litter of 50 per cent woolies, and 50 per cent normal coats.

White Flemish carrying Rex, mated to Whiterex, gives litters of 50 per cent Rexes and 50 per cent normal coats.

While writing without long words, let's state a few simple facts. These are that black is black, white is white, Chinchilla is Chinchilla. That the color artist that talks about breeding in a dash of black or blue to improve the color of his strain is right out of luck. Each of the rabbits colors, patterns and fur lengths are staple characters in inheritance, and scramble thme as you like, they will always turn up again in all their old glory, in what the fancier calls "sports." Take the Havana for example, it standard calls for a cobby rabbit, why—says the fancier, let's cross to Dutch, they are cobby, so crossed they were. What was the result? Maybe, an extra cobby rabbit now and then, but oh!, the white toes and nails. Well, again says the fancier, this will never do; we must cure this right away, the Himalayan has got dark feet. Let's breed dark toes into our white toe rabbits, so crossed again they were. Now, what have we got? Why, in some strains Havana, Dutch, Brown Himalayan, white toes, white toe-nails, and even where the Dutch has won out, a white-toe Brown Himalayan.

Now are these methods much good, judged by results, they are useless, but something can be said of them, they give lots of fun and interest to the breeder. If you are a real breeder you know these facts. If you ever expect to be a breeder you must understand these facts in order to know how to mate your stock. The knowledge you have of these fundamentals is the difference between a rabbit breeder and rabbit raiser. What are you?

CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS

By Helen M. Knickrehm

In gazing at the calendar pad, I find away off at the end of this month's page, the most loved of all days of the year, December 25. Each year as the first touch of winter strikes our cheek, we hear the faint echo of tinkling Christmas bells. We vision the gay rings of holly, festive with tinsel and ribbon in the frosted windows of shops and homes.

In the woodbox of our memories are the chips of loving cherished memories of past Christmas days.

The year of 1822, 117 years ago, in this country, Clement Moore's famous poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas," swept the counmaking Santa Claus real to many children for years to come. The elders of this generation have the memory of the breathless moment at Christmas dawn, when we woke from our heavenly child sleep to find our stocking, which we had so carefully placed the eve before, filled with the fondest of dreams come true, hopes which we had so tenderly expressed to Santa.

Again this calendar fades into the picture of the large old-time kitchen, where dear ones so busily worked, fragrances of the aroma of spices and fruits mingled with roasting meat. The large banquet sized table comes into view, carefully covered with the whitest of pure linen, the cleanest of silver and sparkling glassware and maybe you can even see the old silver castor reigning in the center of the table like a king. Friends, relatives, dear ones all seated around, faces beaming, eyes glittering with excitement and happy chattering voices.

Even the birds are taking part, enjoying the grain you so carefully placed on the window sill for their day of days.

The picture fades into a blanket of white as you recall the crunch of your steps in the newly fallen snow of velvet like texture as you walk to the glowing lighted warm church. Then you may next blush as you recall your first kiss under the green mistletoe and with no warning too.

Lastly, the picture of that stately tree, loaded with color, the scent of hemlock, cedar, fur or pine, alight with all the glow of candle light, with your kindly parents watching carefully.

We of this country have taken the Christmas of all the world's nations and faiths and united them in one grand Christmas in these United States. Nowhere in the world is the celebration happier or more abundant.

There is war in the world, as Christmas comes this year. There is trouble, hunger, strife, turmoil and distress among the people of many nations and faiths. There is also peace somewhere in this world, the kind that men throughout the ages have found at the feet of Christ. This year when a prayer for peace is in our hearts for those who are in need, on our lips for our own, let us all join our voices in carol to the Prince of Peace. Perhaps this year with your child's child in your arms at Christmas, your prayer will also be one that may she or he live on to remember the Christmas time with the memories of the happiness and love you have had in your heart, forever.

If anywhere on this hate-burdened earth there should be the feeling of good fellowship, friendliness, understanding and love it surely should be the feeling of good fellowship, friendliness, understanding and love it should be among all of us. Help lighten a heart, it is the sure way to feel Christmas.

Here is my prayer and wish to all of you: Peace on earth for all, and may this Christmas be your happiest golden memory of all, your new year the most prosperous —filled with health and happiness.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

All questions to be answered in this department must be sent to Helen M. Knickrehm, 1313 West 97th St., Los Angeles, Cal.

Any questions concerning diseases and the like are given correct cooperation of the United States Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service.

If you wish a direct answer to your problems please enclose a self addressed stamped envelope, otherwise your answers may wait until the next month's issue.

Davenport, Iowa: Your description of the action of your doe, seems to appear that your doe had pneumonia, the placing of the drug you mentioned in the irritated nasal passage caused her to throw her head back to her spine. You did not mention in your letter enough symptoms to give you accurate information, but from what you did write, I imagine your doe had loss of appetite, blueness in color around nose and ears blue and cold, eyes sort of dull in color. This condition all goes with your description of the condition of your rabbit. Pneumonia, unless treated in the earliest stages, is seldom if ever cured in rabbits. The average rabbit breeder cannot detect the early stages of pneumonia. You ask what to do if you have another rabbit get in the same condition. I will answer that by saying an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. Somewhere free from drafts, in sanitary clean hutches, give a good balanced diet and plenty of fresh water. Pneumonia is oftimes a secondary condition with other diseases. When a rabbit is sick his vitality is low and they are then susceptible to pneumonia.

Youngstown, Ohio: You are now asking what to do about mating rabbits when in a moultv condition and why you should not breed them at this time? It is normal for a rabbit to moult in the early fall months. In the spring most rabbits are worked heavily for production, as this is the ideal production months. They then endure very hot summers throughout the several states. In July, August and in September and even October they are moulting and you wonder why you can't mate them in these latter two months. The answer is their vitality is low after going through the above. Properly fed rations as well as the correct amount of feed, thus keeping your rabbit in good physical condition will aid this problem. A well cared for and well fed rabbit will have a shorter moulting period, than one who has not had adequate care. You will find, if you check carefully, that rabbits in good coat will be less likely to miss and you will have less breeding trouble with your rabbits.

To all of you who are having difficulties in getting your does bred (and there are many letters coming in from all over the country stating you are having this trouble) bear in mind that the early spring months are the time when your does are most easily mated, August, September and October are the hardest months to breed your rabbits. There are also many other reasons for your does not breeding. Check these, check your does and bucks and see if this could be your trouble. Sore hocks, injuries, cankered ears, sore vents, colds, moulting, any disease, rabbits will fail to breed, with any of these things causing them to be out of good physical condition. Does and bucks too fat or too thin may become temporarily sterile, you may care for this by feeding.

There is leaflet called The Principles of Breeding Rabbits by Geo. S. Templeton, director of the U. S. Experiment Station for Rabbits at Fontana, Calif., which is very valuable to any rabbit breeder having difficulties in breeding rabbits.

If you are wondering what to give a fellow rabbit breeder friend for Christmas a jolly good way to remember your friend is to send him a gift subscription of SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE which will be as pleasureable as well as profitable one through the whole year of 1942.

Convention is Over: By the time this reaches our readers the convention at Fort Wayne will be a thing of the past. However, at this writing it promises to be one of the best ever held by the A. R. & C. B. A. You will receive a full report in January.

The Year of 1941: During the year of 1941, we have seen a gradual increase for the better in our industry and the prospects for 1942 look better than ever. One of the great problems confronting us today is not a market for stock but a larger production both in rabbits and guinea pigs and our work and each individual member's problem is to induce more breeders to take up the raising of rabbits and cavies either in large or small quantities to help build up a larger production to take care of the demand. There are hundreds of individuals (men and women) in villages and cities who could take up either rabbits or cavies or both and make a reasonable profit in their own back yard and enjoy the pleasure of caring for and feeding the animals daily. The demand is good, skin prices higher than they have been for years and I see no reason why conditions for our industry should not continue to improve for several years ahead. In many sections, there are no meat rabbits available for the laboratories are taking all the surplus and at times cannot secure their requirements. I was out with one buyer recently, who had spent the entire day previous searching for both rabbits and cavies around Chicago with no results and this day was only able to round up 11 rabbits. Every rabbitry he visited when asked how many? he promptly stated, I will take all you have for sale. Unless we can get more breeders interested, we are not going to have enough to furnish laboratories in some sections of the country to say nothing about meat markets this winter. Every breeder should try to induce his neighbor to enter our industry and help to increase production. We are making some progress but we need many more to take up this healthy, interesting and last but not least profitable work. Many are going in for Angora Woolers and there is a bright future ahead for this phase of the industry. The A. R. & C. B. A. has made considerable gain in membership during the past year but there is still room for improvement. Too many, I am afraid join the A. R. & C. B. A. to get the guide book and standard (which is worth much more than the price of membership) then drop out until another is issued. Resolution No. 3 offered this year, if it passes may overcome this and help us to keep our membership up. Every member should try and secure a new member whenever possible. Secretaries of locals, judges and registrars should do likewise, whenever the opportunity presents itself.

The advertising done by our Marketing Committee the past year has done us much good and while not directly in securing members, it has placed us in touch with hundreds who never knew there was such an industry. Over 9,000 booklets were sold through this advertising and most of these mailed out on single orders. During the height of our advertising, I received 60 to 90 inquiries daily for these booklets. These were received from a new field and many questions asked relative to our industry and inquiries promptly answered, if the booklet did not contain the answers. The cost of this advertising (amounting to about $1,000.00) was taken out of the Marekting Committee fund which was derived from a few donations from members, local associations, advertising and sale of booklets, also a percentage of memberships received by the American and turned over to this fund monthly. Do not know at present what the committee will decide on next year but hope something will be decided on that will keep the good work going. Yes, the outlook for 1942 is good, let us all do our part to make it a banner year for our industry.

Harry Herrlein Visits Headquarters: We were pleased to have Harry G. Herrlein, of Rockland Farms, New City, N. Y., visit us Friday, October 31. Mr. Herrlein was in this city looking after his interests in his famous feeds for rabbits, cavies, rats, mice, etc. Mr. Herrlein had visited several large cities on his way to Chicago and will attend our convention at Fort Wayne where he is booked as one of the speakers. He had his movie camera outfit with him and run off some very interesting films showing his plant at New City where he not only handles thousands of rabbits, cavies, rats and mice annually, but also manufactures a first class commercial fertilizer and also puts out his famous feeds. The outstanding feature of this film is that it shows what can be done with small stock such as rabbits, cavies, rats and mice, if handled properly. All it needs is the proper man behind it. I agree it takes work to make it a success with business principles applied but what line of business does not demand these requirements. I remember Mr. Herrlein when a mere boy showing a few rabbits. Today a successful and prosperous business man. May he continue to prosper.

Charter Granted Oklahoma State Association: Application for charter for the United Rabbit & Cavy Breeders Association of Oklahoma, Inc., received and charter granted October 8. Mrs. Alice A. Perkins, 4916 S. S. Road, Tulsa, is secretary of this new association and Simon F. Orf, president. We look forward to this association doing much good for our industry and the A. R. & C. B. A. in the future.

Michigan State Association Active: Breeders in the state of Michigan are fortunate in having a state that gives them considerable help in many ways and last but not least with finances. I have received copy of a letter to members of the Michigan State Association sent out by O. M. Sennewald who is the chairman of the committee and survey, stating among other things that $800.00 would be donated by the state during 1942 for their rabbit shows. This will be a wonderful help and I hope all breeders in Michigan appreciate this great help. Mr. Senneweld also states if the breeders will raise $100.00 the state will add $400.00 to this amount to be used in advertising the rabbit industry and its various products, the same as they advertise poultry, eggs, etc. Professor Card of the department of poultry husbandry of the Michigan State College is still interested in domestic rabbits and is a great help to the breeders and through his influence has done much to help the breeders in the state of Michigan. I believe Michigan is doing more for the rabbit breeders at the present time than any state in the union and in time I look forward to Michigan being one of oru largest rabbit producing states. More power to the state of Michigan and its breeders.

New Chartered Association from New Hampshire: Application for charter for the Gate City Rabbit and Fur Breeders Association of Nashua, New Hampshire, has been received and charter granted October 31. Robert Grogan, 21 Hall Ave., Nashua, N. H., is secretary of this association and we wish them success. R. R. Trowbridge, of Reeds Ferry, is president. This is the second association we have chartered in New Hampshire and look forward to having many more new breeders in this section.

Nomination and Election Ballots: I'm sorry one of our candidates for office this year tried to carry the impression (through bulletins and otherwise) that nomination and election ballots were not handled accornidg to our constitution and by-laws. They were handled the same this year as in previous years according to dates set for convention. I always try to be fair in this matter and give all time to cast their ballots and have found that nearly all ballots are in from 10 days to two weeks. There are a few stragglers come in later but never enough to change final results. Therefore, I make notation that nominations will close in about two weeks for by that time I can take up with the various candidates relative to placing their names on the election ballot, receiving their reply, having the ballots printed and ready for mailing, another two weeks has passed before election ballots are ready to go out. In other words it is at least 30 days after nomination ballots are mailed before election ballots are mailed which is in line with our constitution and by-laws, Section 4 Article 6 under Election at bottom of page 8 in Guide Book. There is nothing in our constitution and by-laws stating number of days before nominations should be closed. The secretary must do this work and arrange this work along with his other work to get them out on time. This is the first complaint I have ever had on this subject and the only one received this year. However, I wish to inform our members these ballots were sent out in line with our constitution and by-laws the same this year as in previous years and every member has ample time to fill them out and mail in.

Registrations: Registrations for October showed a great improvement over the previous month and made a gain of 140 per cent on total of animals registered, New Zealands, Chinchillas, Flemish Giants and Angoras, all showed a wonderful gain and we look forward to more registrations now that the hot weather is over. E. Coe, of Santa Monica, Calif., gave five registrations free as specials at both the San Diego and Los Angeles County Fairs. This is a good idea and a very good special. In fact, a good example for other registrars to follow.

Following is the standing of the various breeds in applications received, January 1 to November 1, 1941: New Zealands, 524; Chinchillas, 274; Flemish 264; Angoras, 189; Rexes, 58; Checkered Giants, 57; Havanas, 23; Dutch, 20; Champagne D'Argents, 20; Creme D'Argents, 19; Silver Martens, 10; Beverens, 9; Lilacs, 8; English, 4; Himalayans, 4; Polish, 4; Belgians, 3; Silver Fox, 2.

Grand Championship Certificate: Following Grand Championship Certificate has been issued since my last report:

Rex, Reg. No. 8408-V, New Zealand buck owned by Ernie Branies.

Official American Rabbit & Cavy Breeders Association Shows: The following chartered locals have been granted permission to hold their shows as an official A. R. & C. B. A. show since my last report:

December 5-7, 1941, Conn. R. Breeders, Inc., New Haven, Conn.

January 22-25, 1942, Pikes Peak Rabbit Association, Colorado Springs, Colo.

March 6-8, 1942, Portsmouth R. B. A., Lucasville, Ohio.

February 21-March 1, 1942, Chicago R. & C. B. A., Chicago, Ill.

November 26-29, 1942, Lima R. & C. B. A., Lima, Ohio.

June 14, 1942, Lima R. & C. B. A., Lima, Ohio, Lawn Show.

April 3-5, 1942, Cedar Rapids Small Stock Association, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

November 27, 1941, White Mountain State R. & C. B. A., Manchester, N. H.

AMERICAN ANGORA RABBIT BREEDERS COOPERATIVE

By C. W. Orr, Sec., Palmer Lake, Colo.

The time which your Cooperative has been stressing ever since its organization is here and how nearly ready we are for it will be proven in this next few months. The imports of Angora wool for the present are cut off. How much of the required wool are we prepared to supply the mills?

I would like to quote you from a letter which is similar to a number of other letters we have received. We believe this will make you more familiar with the situation.

"We would like to have you give us the following information:

"First, we should like to know the approximate quantity you can accumulate of this hair and are able to offer us monthly. In other words, we want to know the approximate quantity of this hair that will be available.

"Second, in what proportions to the various grades will this hair be available.

"Third, if we should handle this hair we would like to know if it is agreeable for you to confine the sale of this production entirely to us; that is as long as we take this hair from you, we should have the privilege to take it without your offering it elsewhere. For this reason, if we start to manufacture these goods in the various grades that you send us, we want to know that we will have uninterrupted delivery and not an occasional purchase."

The letter continues by saying that as soon as the Japanese market is open they will not be willing to pay the prices they are now willing to pay.

All wool received up to November 1 has been shipped and money for same will be mailed out to the growers in the early part of December.

On the wool sent in previous to August 1 the quotation given out by the Cooperative was $5.00 per pound, however, by holding the wool a short time we were able to get $5.35 a pound for it. This difference was passed on to the growers as a bonus.

Your revolving fund certificates will be mailed out to you before the first of the year. This dividend certificate represents two per cent on all the wool sent in by you during the past year. These dividend certificates are your share in the earnings of the Cooperative for the year. When you ship your wool to the cooperative you are building your own business in whose profits you will share in proportion to the amount of wool you send in.

At the present time 450 growers are sending their wool to the American Angora Rabbit Breeders Cooperative. New members are coming in every day. We believe if we can please 450 growers we can please you too.

Do not waste one ounce of wool. Don't let any of it get into No. 4 or No. 5. The demand is for the upper grades.

The American Chinchilla Rabbit Breeders Assn.

By C. N. Farley, Secretary-Treasurer
P. O. Box 382, Sedalia, Mo.

As this issue of SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE does not come to you until after our annual convention is over, I think it will be best to give you the substance of my annual report as given to our convention in Fort Wayne, Ind.

As our convention is one month later this year than last year, this report will cover 13 months, from October 1, 1940, to November 1, 1941. While our increase in membership has not been what we feel it should be, we have made some gain. During the 13 months we have received 94 new members and 98 renewals, a total of 192. During the same period last year we received a total of 176 memberships. Let's work just a little harder.

During the 13 months we have sent out to our membership 235 special ribbons, 24 Grand Champion Certificates and seven cups. We offer our specials to any show judged by a licensed judge of the A. R. & C. B. A. if the show organization abides by our rules. See that your show organization asks for, and lists our specials.

We cannot list the officers elected for 1942 at this time, because the polls remain open at the secertary's office until the opening of the convention.

Creme D' Argent Federation

By Harry Clauss, Secretary.

I have just received results of our recent election from Election Commissioner Kenneth Gepfert, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The following are our officers for 1942: President, C. R. Trumbull, Canandaigua, N. Y.; vice-president, K. Gepfert, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, secretary-treasurer, H. L. Clauss, Canandaigua, N. Y.; directors, P. H. Ring, of North Hills, Pa., and Milo Glew, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Checking over these new officers I believe that we have elected a splendid hard-working group that should push Cremes more than ever.

Great interest is being shown in Cremes at the present time, causing a demand that seems to be greater than the supply. Breeders through the east report actual shortage of saleable stock. I would suggest members having any surplus stock place ads in SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE and let breeders know if you have stock for sale.

We are starting to revise and go into more detail on our standard, if you have any points that you think need clarifying please forward your suggestions to me at once. before revisions are placed before the A. R. & C. B. A. standards committee.

And now we will have a few words from our new president:

"Dear Members:

"I was exceedingly surprised as well as pleased to learn from election commissioner, Ken Gepfert and Secretary Clauss of my election to the presidency of the Creme D'Argent Federation.

"Wish to take this opportunity to thank all members for entrusting the reins of our fast growing organization to me for the coming year.

"In taking office of president of this Federation, I have two major issues in mind for the coming year. The first is to increase our membership to at least double its present amount. This is a problem that is up to each and every member. I know of several breeders of Cremes in the country today who do not belong to the Federation, perhaps these same breeders live in your locality, if so look them up, encourage them to join both for their benefit and ours.

"The second issue I speak of is a Federation guide book. Some time ago such a book was started but was shelved due to the lack of material and I am sorry to say, support of the general body.

"But somehow I could not give up the idea. Therefore I have the material out of the files and am going to appoint a committee to work with me and really finish the job this time.

"In closing wish to say that if at the end of 1942 I can see the Creme D'Argent membership doubled and our guide book become a reality I will be more than satisfied..

"Yours for more and better Cremes.
Clifford R. Trumbull, President,
Creme D'Argent Federation."

EXCLUSIVE MARTEN SHOW

By Johnny Knewasser, Secretary
194 Mathews Street
Binghamton, N. Y.

Well, Marten breeders, another month has gone by and we are getting closer to our February all Marten show.

Word has come from special getter, Paul Birdsall, Holcomb, N. Y., that our old friend and breeder Chocolate Fisher has come through with a five spot also President Guyton has kicked in with two dollars to help swell the old pot of gold so send in your specials so that we may get the old list out in good time.

I am just getting over the trip to the Eastern convention in the good old smoky city of Pittsburgh. They sure had some park where it was held, over 1,000 acres. I stayed up night and day but still I didn't get it all covered as they tell me there were some buffalo there and I never seen any thing that big. But while there I did meet that [illegible] official A. R. & C. B. A. Judge Harold (Gene) Hamlin, Perry, N. Y., who is one of the outstanding Marten judges of the country and has bred Silver Martens for the past 12 years.

Keep watch in your January and February issues of SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE for the dates and so on.

Don't forget fellows you must have one good one and send him to Bingo where the cream of the Silver Martens meet and see how good he is.

If we are to continue these shows it is up to you Marten breeders to get out and help us put this one over and show yur colors if you have any as it takes lots of time and money on this end where all you have to do is give a special and an entry no matter how small or large it all counts.

So let's go fellow breeders as you have the most beautiful rabbit on earth and why not show it. And let's hear that old pot boil.

EASTERN MICHIGAN RABBIT AND CAVY BREEDERS ASSOCIATION

Our monthly business meeting was held Sunday, October 26 at the home of the president, William Ihle. This month being election month for officers of the association many members were brought from seclusion.

We had a very stimulating meeting and progressed through our business meeting rapidly to get on the election end of the meeting. The new officers are: Jack Dengler, president; Elizabeth Dobbs, vice-president; Roe Rusch, secretary; Clara Dengler, treasurer; board of directors, O. M. Sennewald, chairman, Louis Dobbs, Eva Duckwall, Geo. Shear, William Ihle. With these members in office to carry the torch for E. M. R. & C. B. A. for 1942, our association should have a successful year. Good luck to all new officers.

A campaign for new members is in full swing and all breeders who live in our locality are invited to attend our next meeting November 30, 1941, at Grntiat and Chesterfield avenue, East Detroit, Mich., near Ten Mile Road.

We also pledged to back our state association 100 per cent and do something constructive for the rabbit industry in Michigan. Our campaign for new members is also a campaign for SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE. Every new member a subscriber to the magazine is ouh ballyhoo.

ILLINOIS-INDIANA AMERICAN CHECKERED GIANT CLUB

By I. R. Holmes, Publicity Director

Uncle Sam has called one of our members to the army, Leo Litzer, of Calumet City, Ill. We gave him a little send off at our last meeting and wished him a speedy return.

Our treasury showed a balance of $45 with a good supply of stationery, pedigrees and rosettes on hand.

Don't forget our annual meeting and banquet to be held the first Saturday after New Year's which will be January 3. This is the time new officers take office and a good time is had by all.

What is the matter with the Southern Illinois Checkered Giant Breeders, that they do not boost the Checkered Giants more by making their shows Checkered Giant Sweepstake? There were only two sweepstakes and they were held in the northern part of the state. Don't you like to see a good entry of Checkered Giants at your shows? This is one way in which you will get them. Also our club will donate its rosette for best of breed if your show is a sweepstake.

We have sent several letters to judges asking their bid on the national Checkered Giant show to be held May 1-2-3 and as soon as we can, judge will be announced. As always judging will be done on Saturday. Pledges have started to come in, so far we have a total of $25, a good start. Now let's all start getting specials for the show, don't just send yours in, but ask your buddie to send his in also.

LILAC SPECIALTY CLUB

By W. S. Walters, Secretary-Treasurer
1695 Parkman Rd. N. W., Warren, Ohio

As you read this article the 1941 National convention show will be past history. And as the election ballots were opened and counted at the club's meeting I am unable to give a report at this writing.

In a few short weeks we will be in the holiday season so in behalf of the Lilac Specialty Club I would like to thank SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE for the fine work it has done, especially the special issues this last year. And also wish the SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE and its staff a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

In conclusion I wish each and every member of the club a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

American English Rabbit Club

By James Blyth

Your secretary will again have to ask your forgiveness for neglecting to perform the club's duties. The reason is again over work. The defense program has called on most all of us to give most of our time to this work. Between times this office has done what little it could to keep the English rabbit in the lime light where it surely belongs. Much time has been spent in putting over the Eastern Fancier's convention show at Pittsburgh, Pa. And some effort spent on the Eastern's new guide book. The English fanciers have backed the Eastern very strong and they have fine cuts, etc., in the new guide book. We suggest that all that are not members of the Eastern fanciers association should join and get a copy of this fine little book which deals only with the fancy. Although there has been very little activity in our club we are still holding our own. And this is proven by new English breeders as well as the old-timers joining us. We received the application of one old timer that I am sure all will be pleased to have with us, this is Fred M. Dennis, of Stroudsburg, Pa. Mr. Dennis was one of our best exhibitors some years ago. He is back with his favorite color which was Tortoise. Fritz Martin, of East Syracuse, joined us at the New York state fair. Fritz has bred several breeds but loves the English the best. We wish Messrs. Dennis and Martin all the success in the world.

The clubs championship show held at Pittsburgh, Pa., with A. J. Foerster, judge, did not prove to be a large showing of our breed. But it did prove that English are getting better and more even. Most any of the specimens shown could have won at any show a few years back. There were nine exhibitors of English at Pittsburgh. They were: Dr. J. A. Connors, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a new comer in the English fancy; John J. Uckele, Camden, N. J.; W. J. Seyfried, Alpha, N. J. Bill is always there and is one of our oldest and best fanciers of today; Harold R. DeBarr, who is giving a good account of himself in the show rooms; J. Blyth; Shufflebotham & Esnoir, Tom must have taken himself a partner. Tom is about the best exhibitor we have and he fears no competitor; J. C. Steen, John Tate, who is going to put Tortoise back on the map; and Warren Campbell, young at the game but giving a good account of his work. Judge Foerster done a nice job of placing the English awards. In the Black classes John J. Uckele won first senior buck, Warren Campbell won first senior doe, with DeBarr taking both junior classes. In the Blue classes DeBarr won all four firsts. DeBarr's junior Blue doe taking the highest award best English. Best Black was won by Campbell. And best Black opposite sex went to J. Uckele.

In Tortoise John Tate made a real win taking everything before him.

I hope to have a full report of the National convention show to be held at Fort Wayne, Ind., next month.

MIDWEST RABBIT AND CAVY CLUB

By Mrs. Royal M. Smithson

Meetings are being held in Kansas City, Mo., again at 1428 Prospect, last Sunday in each month. Every one getting their best stock ready for convention show.

Some of the breeders are putting in cavies to supply the laboratory trade as most of the old breeders quit when the prices fell off this spring.

We now have a new breeder in our territory, J. C. Pate, who is going to build up a meat trade here. He has contacted quite a few stores. Most of them agree to try dressed rabbit, smoked rabbit and sausage. Mr. Pate is just back from California where he has made a study of the meat trade and after all we can not sell all of our stock for breeders. The furs are bringing top prices now so meat and furs will pay a profit for any rabbitry.

Special to the ladies: Are you using your furs to make garments for your own use? The women of our club would like to hear from women of other clubs regarding this matter.

DON'T use your stud buck more than two or three times a week.

CALIFORNIA ANGORA WOOL GROWERS, Inc.

By W. H. Webb, Secretary

Members of this cooperative have certainly had the right spirit of cooperation. Recently when some of the members and officers had fallen behind in the rehearsing, due to other duties and jobs for the association, members got together and took their lunches and went to the affiliated members rabbitry and held a shearing bee. Besides getting the shearing caught up, the members enjoyed the good fellowship of each others company and exchanged many ideas and experiences.

Another member recently had to move his rabbitry, but had no means of loading and moving the hutches. Again, several of the members got together and with the use of their cars and a trailer got the whole rabbitry moved. It just goes to show what a lot can really be accomplished when a bunch of good people get together for a cause and put the job over.

The same members, in fact, all of the members of the co-op have really been working together to advance the organization and industry. At the last regular monthly meeting, a wool grading demonstration and instruction was conducted by M. J. Allen. A rabbit was sheared, showing where the various grades of wool are usually found on the rabbits. It was brought out that different rabbits vary in the production of certain grades of wool in certain places. For instance, some rabbits will always have No. 1 wool on their chests, while others only have No. 2 at shearing time. Some have a softer wool and it will mat up sooner than others. However, for the new growers' benefit, generalities were dealt with primarily and the whole exhibition was very educational. We are planning other similar demonstrations and discussions on various subjects pertaining to the Angora industry, in an effort to provide educational programs for the newer growers and suggest new ideas to some of the older breeders. A discussion on culling is planned for an early meeting, and another will be held on selection of breeding stock.

Wool is still moving steadily and is being sold every month. Checks were issued at the November meeting for the wool shipped in September. All wool is now paid in full up to the October shipment. Shipments are made each month on the Monday following the meeting, which falls on the second Friday of the month. Due to the increased freight on the railroads, it now takes about three weeks for the wool to reach the mill. They pay by the tenth of the following month, so it is usually about seven weeks before the check reaches the growers. However, by shipping wool every month, the growers receive their checks every month.

Of course the finance fund is growing, and members may get a 50 per cent advance if so desired, or may draw feed requisitions up to 75 per cent of the value of the wool in the warehouse, and need not worry about their feed bills. This setup is made possible through the cooperation of the Universal Milling Co., and has been a real service to the members.

The next regular meeting will be December 12, 1941, at 6814 South Broadway in Los Angeles. All Angora breeders and their friends are invited to attend. The meeting is open to everyone interested.

THE NORTHWEST RABBIT AND CAVY BREEDERS ASSN.

By Leonard Marcin, Secretary
3359 Belmont Avenue North
Robbinsdale, Minn.

A new rabbit and cavy association has been formed here in Minnesota to take care of the increasing number of breeders in this vicinity. We are planning some winter entertainment in the form of card parties, and social meetings. But best of all, we are going to try and help the new breeder. I want to quote from our constitution: "The object of this association is to benefit all rabbit and cavy breeders of the state. Also to promote, maintain, develop and improve the breeding of rabbits and cavies and to encourage the exhibition and promote the sale of rabbits for food and commercial purposes within the state of Minnesota. Also to assist in securing legislation and publicity that is beneficial to the rabbit and cavy industry."

We welcome corespondence and will gladly answer all inquiries regarding our new organization.

North American Marten Rabbit Club

By Stephen C. Hoyle, Secretary.
95 Edmund Street
Woonsocket, R. I.

I have been having trouble getting my news to SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE in time the last few months, partly due to my laxness and partly due to the mail service between here and Lamoni, Iowa. I am trying to have the same corrected on both counts and will try to do better in the future.

As the members of the club realize, elections are now completed for the ensuing year's officers with the exception of the secretary-treasurer. I will advise all interested persons of the results in the next issue of Just Martens as well as SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE.

I would appreciate it if all members of the club who have the special club ribbons due them would send me a list of the shows they won them at. The reason I have not been sending them out the past few weeks is that the club has run out of the same and we are having more made up. As soon as they are ready I will try and get them all paid up. If you could, however, help me out by advising how many you have coming to you and where they were won it will help me get the quantities correct.

We have a few new members enrolled in the club the past few months. The growth of our club over the past few years is certainly something that we can be proud of. Our membership has grown, our treasury balance has grown, and the quality of our breed of rabbit has past all expectations. If some of the unbeatable Martens of a few years ago were entered today, they would be completely outclassed and probably would not receive any comment other than just outclassed.

Several nice letters this past few months. It is a big relief to have the members again pick up the reighns. All through the summer I was trying to bluff through my news sheets, few as they were. If you don't tell me what's going on "over at your house" there is no way I can pass the information along. Now, however, with cold weather perking us all up again, I can begin to get some light from under your "bushel."

You members have no doubt received the mimeographed sheet from Paul Birdsall with regards to the results to date of this year's sweepstake shows. For the benefit of the non-members, the points towards this year's leg on the new trophy are as follows: Birdsall, 164; King, 117; Knewasser, 105; Steen, 87; Fisher, 86; James, 79; Godshall, 73; Rosetto, 41; Atkinson, 36; Huntington Rabbitry, 13; Boyce, 8; Guyton, 8; K & K Rabbitry, 5; New Bar Rabbitry, 1; with the best and best opposite sex of each color at the Mineola Fair to be added.

As you probably know by this time the North American Marten Club, following a precedent started three seasons ago, but neglected after the first attempt, not however, due to original failure, will this year sponsor an all-Marten show. It is to be held in Binghamton, N. Y., February 13, 14 and 15. Johnnie Knewasser is to be the superintendent, secretary, etc., and Gene Hamlin is to do the judging. The entry fee is to be 55c and the competition I am absolutely positive will be the stiffest you have encountered. If you like it tough, you had better show. If you can't stand it that way, show any way and maybe you will thereby learn how when you see some of the rest of us in the same boat.

Paul Birdsall, Holcomb, N. Y., has charge of securing the specials and solicits your cooperation. It would facilitate matters from his viewpoint if you would volunteer your specials instead of waiting for him to contact you. To date he has $19.00 in specials and he has only heard from five members. If the average holds up, you see what we will have.

Remember, keep up the good work with regards to news. I enjoy putting out the news sheet when there is something to say, but it is very depressing when you think of the time, labor and money spent all for the purpose of saying nothing and saying it very poorly at that.

DON'T sell a rabbit because it is a poor breeder or is subject to colds. The best thing to do is to put it on the meat block.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
By Frank McKay, 36 Tacoma St., Rochester, N. Y.

Tht Rochester Rabbit Breeders Association held its regular Novemoer meeting at the Museum on Friday, November 7. Forty-two members were present. Five new members were voted into membership, including Maurice Sixby, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Part of the meeting was taken up with plans for our show to be held with the poultry and pigeon boys from December 3 to 7 in the Civics Exhibition building. A good list of specials was solicited from the members. Copies of premium list can be had by writing to Carl F. Smith, 290 Ravine Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

T. R. Vandervort, of Cleveland, attended the meeting and gave a very interesting talk. He is now stationed in Buffluo with the government and we hope he will be able to get Buffalo back on its feet. At one time Buffalo had a very active rabbit club but they seem to be in a very bad slump at the present time.

The Frosted Rabbit Meat Marketing Cooperative affiliated with our club is going fine and taking all the fryers the boys can raise.

Our club will have a booth in the hobby show which will be held in the civics exhibition building December 13 to 20. This is a very active hobby show with a average attendance of 40,000 to 50,000 people for the week.

Our club will also have a booth at the show held with the poultry boys. Furs, coats, skins, hutches and frosted rabbit meat will be on display.

Rex Rabbit Federation

By Carl F. Schultz, Secretary-Treasurer
3592 Kimmel Road, Cleveland, Ohio

Quite a few of our newer members are writing in asking whether or not they were entitled to our special ribbons after winning best of variety at certain shows. I wish to take this opportunity to explain how these ribbons are awarded. To win a special ribbon for the best in each variety of Rex the winner must be a member or join before judging and the club holding the show must have received permission to offer our ribbons and advertise this fact. I hope this clears up the awarding of these ribbons. More Rex are being shown than ever before, 150 being on display at the Los Angeles County Fair and 57 at the Eastern Fanciers show at Pittsburgh, Pa., show. Rex are still being registered and at the last report the Rex are fifth in the number registered to date. Rex breeders continue to write in for information and many are sending in their applications. If you are breeding Rex and are not now a member of our Federation, why not join today? You will find that it pays to belong. Election ballots have been mailed and in the next issue of SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE I will give you the results of the election. Many fine letters have come in offering comment on the plan of George Weisser to standardize all Rex and if you are interested in his plan and have not received a copy of it drop me a line and I will send you one. Next month I will endeavor to give you the high lights on Rex at the convention and will close asking all Rex breeders to keep on boosting our favorite rabbit, the Rex.

NORTHEASTERN OKLAHOMA RABBIT & CAVY BREEDERS ASSN.
By H. S. Barnes, Publicity Director

We had a very nice show at Henryetta, Okla., November 1 and 2. Three of our number are from that wide awake town and through their efforts and the Chamber of Commerce, local merchants subscribed funds to pay all show expenses. The N. E. O. R. & C. B. A. put up some nice specials, which with 100 per cent class money made an attractive pot for exhibitors to shoot at.

Fred Grant, show superintendent, and N. C. Giddings and E. C. Silvey, secretaries, did a bang-up job of preparing for the show. For a while though, it looked like there wouldn't be any show, or any judge, or anything. The high water closed practically all state roads and many of them weren't passable till Saturday morning, November 1. The judge and members of the Oklahoma City club who attended had to detour over 50 miles to get to the show.

The November open meeting was held on the eleventh at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Rogers. The evening program was devoted to the subject of furs. May Weldon, local professional furrier, exhibited several garments, one of which was a jacket made from 11 prime Champagne pelts, all produced by one of our members.

The program was followed by a streamlined pie supper, proceeds of the pie supper, and from a cake sale will be used to provide the gobbler and fixings for a Thanksgiving dinner at the next meeting, which will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Upp November 25, 1941.

Federation of American Angora Breeders

By H. John Harder, Secretary
P. O. Box 667, Salem, Ore.

Streamlined through our modern ideas have become, there is one old American tradition which most of us cherish. We want a real home in the country—trees, flowers, chickens, etc., but above all, a profitable industry. We want a safe, sure method of earnings, and Angora Wool rabbits have filled this order to the thousands. Yes, in the evenings we like the way real logs hiss and crackle and sputter as they burn; we like the colors of the flames; we like the warm comfortable atmosphere, a feeling of security and contentment creeps over us. For dependable profits, for quick increase of investment, for a perfect suburb set-up, you will always like the Angora rabbit. It is becoming something more than industry, it will go down in history as a traditional accomplishment as the result of the American way of life and the good American system of free enterprise.

Greetings: Another year has practically rolled by. The holiday season is with us. We want to wish each and everyone of you a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year. We want to thank all of you for the service and support you have rendered the Angora specialty club. We look forward to 1942 as a banner year for the Angora people.

A. R. & C. B. A. Convention: By the time you read this report, the grand national convention at Fort Wayne will be over—no doubt the best and biggest convention the rabbit world has ever enjoyed. We were a little disappointed at the lack of interest in specials and entries. It seems that we Angora breeders have a lot to learn as to the real value of showing our breed. The national convention show is always the best in the country and every support should be given to promote the Angora industry.

Management Practices: It is not enough to just receive a good price for your wool in order to make a success in the Angora business. It takes proper management as well. Too many breeders fail to keep proper records on shearing dates, feeding results, breeding, advertising, etc. No matter how small, no enterprise can be a success unless managed in the proper business-like manner. All of us have a part in building this to be a major national industry. Let's go at it right.

Wool Market Brisk: The demand for Angora wool continues to be good. The only cloud in the horizon is the lack of sufficient quantities. The Japanese supply is cut off now too and it's the duty of every American grower to increase his or her herd as rapidly as possible. Then get others interested, sell breeding stock. Make your shipments monthly if possible to our eastern warehouse, in care of President Allen T. Gilbert, East Haven, Conn. Any marketing information will cheerfully be furnished upon request.

Big Capital Interested: Recently the big money business men have become interested in Angora wool production. We know of at least one that has a building program which will end up in a 20,000 capacity rabbitry. With a few more like that the textile mills will again receive sufficient wool and they can forget about all importations.

Get a New Member: The American Rabbit & Cavy Breeders Association Angora specialty club is home to every producer of rabbit wool. Perhaps you need a little evidence of what we can do for you so write us for our 1942 program and also some application blanks so you can get your friends and fellow breeders to join with us. Our membership fee is only $1.00 a year and it includes all the privileges.

Wanted Writers: Our publicity program for 1942 will require a lot of literary material. Send us a letter of your experiences, some pictures, or a feature on some phase of the Angora kingdom. It need not be a noisy story calling attention to the biggest and finest, the highest and lowest. Nor need it be a whirlwind story of quick or famous accomplishments. No, just a quiet human story, honest, spacious and even perhaps rather prosaic. It might be built around the experiences of one family, a community, or a national business. The scattered membership and tremendous variety of scenery will change each story. So will youth or age. We want them from all over, from the south, the east, New England, middle west, here from the northwest, the southwest, etc. All of us have had years of hard work, leaving trails of glory. Readers today like to warm their thoughts on the small and real things of life—they bring joy to our lives. Send us yours as soon as possible.

American Beveren Club

By J. C. Henderson, Secretary
4222 25th Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minn.

The election ballots have been mailed and I hope that all members will avail themselves of the opportunity of voting for the officers they think will do the best for the club. We have had a mighty good year in 1941 and look forward to a better one in 1942. Remember it is your club and your opinions and views are valuable to all of us; so send them in. A great number of members have written nice friendly letters and we wish more would do so. It is impossible for all of us to get together, so correspondence is the only means at our disposal for us to learn the other fellow's viewpoint.

From all parts of the country we get the same news; rabbit meat is selling wonderfully; furs are bringing the best prices that have ever been paid; and breeding stock is almost at a premium. If you have any Beverens for sale, a little ad in SMALL STOCK MAGAZINE will easily take care of your surplus; you really should run a little ad anyway for Mrs. Blair is doing more for the rabbit industry than any one person that I know of.

We should make December a clean-up month and get set to put on a real campaign beginning January 1. Don't wait for George to do it but start boosting the rabbit industry a little harder than ever before. "Thar's gold in them thar hutches, brother." It takes a little digging and scraping (and I mean scraping) to get the gold out, but honest industry and determination will uncover the bullion.

Merry Christmas to all, and don't fall down on your job.

American Dutch Club

By R. F. Strickland, Secretary
630 June Street, Endicott, N. Y.

The Dutch breeders have been doing their part in supporting the shows this past year. There has been a nice showing of Dutch in all the shows, with all the breeders doing their sahre of the winning.

The club is doing fine taking in 14 new members the past year. I want to take this time to thank you breeders for the confidence you have placed in me by electing me your secretary for another year. It was impossible for me to give the time to the office last year that it should have had but do pledge you my all for the coming year.

Following is an annual report of finances of the club also a list of the newly elected officers for the year of 1942.

ORGANIZE NEW CLUB

The rabbit breeders in and around Danville, Ill., have just organized a local club known as the "Vermilion County Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Association." The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: John Briggs president; Howard Williams, vice-president; Jos. B. Toph, secretary-treasurer; directors, John Osborn, Guy Sparrow, Howard Williams, C. B. Wilcox and H. H. Wolf.

Regular meetings will be held the first Wednesday of each month at the homes of the various members. A charter has been applied for and plans are under way to hold a show some time in late winter or early spring.

1941 DOYLESTOWN FAIR SHOW REPORT

By George W. Slater, Show Supt.

I am pleased to say that we had a larger show this year, as there were 430 rabbits and 289 cavies. Can also say that the judges did a very good job and all the exhibitors that were there seemed to be well satisfied the way the awards were placed.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR RABBIT SHOW

The show was the largest rabbit show ever held in conjunction with the fair. Judges V. Ashton and R. Schafer placed the awards and everybody was well pleased. The state trophies which have caused great interest were won by the following: Governor Trophy, Jean Baxter, Detroit's outstanding lady exhibitor; Com. of Agricul. Trophy, Quality Rabbitry; Prof. C. Card Trophy, Quality Rabbitry. Quality Rabbitry losing Governor Trophy by 12 points.

The commercial exhibits encouraged by O. M. Sennewald and sponsored by the Auto City club were the talk of all. The show room was spick and span and all stock well taken care of, the reason our old friend Oscar was back on the job. The future for Michigan Rabbit Breeders is sure rosey.

HENRYETTA, OKLA.

The Second Anniversary Henryetta Rabbit and Cavy Show was held in Henryetta, Okla., November 1 and 2. Judge T. L. Owen, of Oklahoma City, Okla., placed the awards much to everyone's satisfaction. One hundred per cent of all entry fees were paid back as class money.

Fred Grant did a bang up job as superintendent and was assisted by Carl Silvey. Doc Giddings handled the secretary's job like a veteran. These breeders are due a lot of praise for conducting such a fine show and are trying to make this show an annual event.

ANNUAL SHOW HELD ASHLAND COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

In the annual show held by the Ashland County Fair Board and by North the Ashland County Fair Grounds on Central Rabbit & Cavy Association at September 17, 18 and 19 there were 280 head of rabbits and 14 head of cavies displayed.

Judge F. J. Fuller, of Blacklick, Ohio, did a very fine job of judging according to the exhibitors. C. J. Latter, of Ashland, was superintendent of the show and C. O. Smalley, also of Ashland, was show secretary. The association wishes to give a vote of thanks to these men for making this show possible by their hard work.

When the time comes for the annual show next year we sincerely hope to have all these exhibtors and more too competing.

CINCINNATI RABBIT & CAVY BREEDERS TABLE SHOW

By Elmer Krieger, Show Secretary

Loveland, Ohio

The Cincinnati Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Table Show is history and was a grand success. Thanks to all supporters of and also all helpers who worked so hard to set up for same, both members but particularly non-members who stood by. Judges Fehr, Fuller and Hutchinson did a quick bang-up job on placements of winners. Here's to a bigger and better show next time.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL RABBIT & CAVY BREEDERS

By H. B. Sherer, Secretary
3253 32d Avenue S., Minneapolis, Minn.

A few members of the Northwest Rabbit Breeders were visitors at our last meeting. We also attended their meeting, talked over many interesting matters that are beneficial to us both. We are all striving for the same purpose, to put the rabbit over. So we will have good cooperation.

Mr. Conley had a long spell of illness. We are glad he is back on the job again. A year has almost passed since our dear friend Noble Wilcox passed away. He was one of the finest gentlemen the rabbit men ever had. He was delivering a Christmas basket to some unfortunate when he had a heart attack and never recovered. He always worried about others more than himself. We that knew him miss him very much.

Mr. Carl, of General Mills, Inc., was our guest recently and gave a few sales talks on meat and feed. It was new to him last spring but has visited California this summer. Being interested in rabbits he looked into all phases of the industry and believes in time it can be as successful in the middle west as in California.

If the date on your wrapper reads: "Feb. 1942," this means that your subscription ends with this issue. Better renew now and not miss any copies.

WINTER SHEARING OF ANGORAS

convenient way for you to ship we have no objection to this method but for those who have asked: "What is the most satisfactory way" we would say the wool looks very much nicer when it is put in the cardboard carton or put into paper sacks and then put into the cardboard carton. Do not use weak boxes as these are easily broken into.

AND I LIKE ANGORA RABBITS

jackets and caps, as well as sweaters, and considering the cost at which I can obtain the yarn, the remuneration is not bad.

I believe Angoras to be tamer and gentler than any other breed of rabbit. No doubt this is the result of the handling necessary for grooming and shearing. At any rate I have never had a doe object to frequent inspections of her nest and babies, or even to the reupholstering of her nest, if I disagree with her concerning its adequacy. Often I give supplementary feeding to specially "empty" looking babies, using a doll's bottle and formula such as that used for human babies. I am sure I have saved several in this way.

One little chap out of a large litter, was almost starved to death when I discovered him. He grew to like his bottle so well that he would pose on his hind feet by the door and wait, instead of eating with the others.

It is needless to say that I enjoy every phase of Angora wool production. I am having the time of my life. No middle aged woman who likes animals will have time to grow old if she embarks on this new and thrilling enterprise.

Get More Money for Your Rabbit Skins

Remember, National is not a brokerage house. Our essential needs are for rabbit skins expressly for dressing and dyeing purposes. Every processing operation is conducted under our own roof. We supply finished furs to Garment, Slipper and Glove makers all over the nation. We need huge quantities of raw skins . . . every kind . . . to constantly supply these growing demands.

Every skin purchased by National is honestly graded as to its true commercial value. The price we pay you is based, just as it should be, upon the actual worth per pound, for each and every grade of skins. More shippers are selling their entire production to National every month. A better average price is the answer.
